Ms. Caraway is a national employment law strategist, litigator and trainer. She advises national, regional and local employers concerning general employment and labor law issues with a concentration on FMLA, disability and religious accommodation issues. She also develops, reviews, and updates human resource policies and supporting agreements, and represents employers in local, state and federal legal proceedings including DOL and EEOC and state human rights commission investigations, mediations and lawsuits throughout the United States. Ms. Caraway is a frequent speaker at national, state and local employment law symposiums on topics ranging from the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA/ADAAA) to harassment, discrimination and retaliation issues. She also provides in-house training and counsel on these and other employment law issues relating to hiring, discipline and terminations.

She also practices entertainment law by designing and reviewing management, artist, agent and recording contracts.
